A hard drive is a computer component that holds data. Every computer needs at least one hard drive to store its operating system, programs and user information.This drive usually is internal, or built into the computer, but as computer systems have evolved and different needs, threats and circumstances have arisen, external hard drives have become more popular.

The Zip drive is a removable floppy disk storage system that was introduced by Iomega in late 1994. Considered medium-to-high-capacity at the time of its release, Zip disks were originally launched with capacities of 100 MB, then 250 MB, and then 750 MB. The format became the most popular of the superfloppy products which filled a niche market in the late 1990s portable storage market.

NOTE: Over the past few years, I have received a lot of messages and comments about this post.It is possible I did not make clear what I was trying to convey about RAID. What I am trying to say is that many people use a RAID as their primary storage system, and have it configured either as a RAID 1 or 5, thinking that the redundancy of the RAID is a backup.
